Warring Faction that Gains It Must Show Complete Military Supremacy.

HOW OFFICIALS VIEW IT

he Carranza faction...

This statement is made on authority. It may be said further that nothing short of the complete military supermemory of either the Carranza or the Villa factions would call for the two children—his son being a resident of Honolulu, Hawaii, and his daughter a student at Leland Stanford Junior recognition by the United States of either as the de facto government. Officials here see nothing of immediate bearing on the question of recognition in the capture of Mexico City by the Carranza forces. Recognition must be based on ability to main ion must be based on ability to main-ain peace; this in turn must be based on military supremacy. The capture of Mexico City by the Carranzista forces is regarded as a disadvantage in a military sense. Therefore, it can have no immediate bearing on the question of recognition.

Viewpoint of Administration. As indicating the viewpoint of the administration, a very high officiat, when asked yesterday if he could see any improvement in the Mexican sit-

The fact that Gen. Gonzales, the Carranzista commander, seems to be doing well in the restoration of order in the Mexican capital has, of course, its bear-ing on the immediate attitude of this government, as has the obvious desire on the part of Gen, Carranza himself to placate the administration and regain its confidence at this time. But nothing that has transpired in the last few days has indicated the probability of a speedy military ascendancy over the Zapata-for the political leadership of Mexico and has offered to support Vasques Ta-gle, who was a member of the Madero cabinet and who is the only living member who has never registered his pori-folio in the last constitutional govern-ment, and is therefore exploited as the onstitutional president of the republic. It is even reported unofficially that Villa has offered to support any man whom President Wilson will suggest, but either of these considerations must wait on Villa's military supremacy, which at
